Folded Self-Mailers (FSM) and specific non-envelope pieces must be designed to meet standards in order to receive automation letter discounts.

The formal definition of a Folded Self-Mailer — A folded self-mailer is formed of panels created when single or multiple unbound sheets of paper are folded together and sealed to form a letter-size mailpiece. Here are some helpful highlights:

- FSM maximum size is 6" x 10½"
- No tabs are allowed on the bottom edge
- All pieces require specific positioning of glue spots or 2-3 tabs based on mailpiece design
- The final folded panel creates the non-address side of the mailpiece which may affect the placement of the mailing panel
- The final fold must be at the bottom or for oblong pieces, the final fold is on the leading edge.
